DID YOU KNOW?

The pH level of the skin is between 5.2 and 7. However, vaginal pH levels are between 3.8 and 5. Respecting the pH of intimate areas helps to protect beneficial Lactobacillus bacteria, in order to prevent pathogenic microbes from proliferating. This is why it is important to use products with a pH close to 4.5. In case of yeast infection, a slightly alkaline pH level (7 to 9) is recommended to rebalance the area.

Gynaecologically tested.
